Dear Adam,

If you're receiving this message, chances are good that you have some connection to children. Whether you're a parent, grandparent, or a teacher, you know that kids are joyful, kind, inquisitive, and thoughtful.

And you know that all children deserve access to an excellent education. An education that addresses their social and emotional learning alongside their academic progress. An education that makes room for play and creativity and that emphasizes community.

The kind of education that students receive at Falk Laboratory School.

When Falk was founded in 1931, attention to the whole child was part of its mission. So was a concern for equity and providing opportunity for all children. In my nearly 30 years here, I've learned that the Falk experience functions best when it is most equitable, when we are able to open our doors wide to invite in as broad and diverse a community as possible.

As director, I am proud that Falk is able to offer tuition assistance to 74 students. But with your help, we can continue to live up to our founding mission by providing a Falk education to even more children.

Will you support Falk's values of diversity, equity, and inclusion by helping to expand access to a Falk Laboratory School education?

Support Falk Laboratory School

Give the gift of experiences. Contribute to the Scholarship Fund or another fund of your choosing—so children can make the most of opportunities to learn and thrive at Falk.

Kindly,
